Whether you are an intense lover of music or simply enjoy hearing good music, you are more than likely aware of the work completed by Beethoven, the German composer. He is generally recognized as one of the greatest composers to ever live. Much of his early work was influenced by those who wrote music in Austria, Haydn and Mozart.

It can be argued whether Beethoven was a classical or romantic composer. This depends upon which period of time in his life the music was written. His exquisite music has elements of both. It has been said that his early works brought to a conclusion the classical age. It has also been stated that Beethoven's later work started the romantic age of music.
